Quality control is considered as part of the overall Quality Assurance Program for the department. Quality control of medicinals is maintained by committee involvement, which includes the Rancho Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee and Infection Control Committee.

In addition to committee involvement, established policies have been adopted for infection control, repackaging medication, drug recall notices, adverse drug reaction reporting, drug defect reporting, inventory audit, unit inspection rounds, equipment maintenance and certification, and facilities.

The department's overall quality control program extends into inter-departmental involvement, which includes participation in the Facility's Safety Committee.

Quality control is maintained on personnel qualification by ensuring that a current professional license is on file, and that continuing education participation on file is relevant.
